

Don't need a new Library

My wife uses the library almost daily and both of us agree that we don't need a new facility. She's a teacher by trade but has worked at a nearby library for the past several years and feels that the Westfield Library is quite adequate. We feel the library should stay right where it is, next to the High School and in walking distance for many. You already have what the majority of patrons want. To provide more of the services offered, what about bookmobiles? In the current financial environment, it's beyond ludicrous to finance a not-needed new building on the other side of US 31. Our real estate tax is high enough now.

Stan Burr
Westfield, IN